MILITIA HONOR LEE.

Seventieth Regiment Celebrates Great Soldier's Birthday.

The Seventieth Virginia Regiment, Virginia Volunteers, celebrated the anniversary of General Robert D. Lee's birthday last night at their armory on Seventh Street, and the affair was a most en-the evening. He was introduced in clo-

Anderson.

After the speaking Companies A, B, C, F and H gave a drill, and then followed a dance, which lasted until a late hour. Licutenant-Governor Willard and Judge Daniel Griman were among the prominent people in the audience.

Mayor McCarthy's address was brief, but it elicited great applause. He spoke first of the decadence of the Virginia militia, and assigned two reasons therefor. One, he said, was the tendency to use the troops as a cheap police force, and the other the disposition of the Federal government to overshadow the State and put the national flag to the front. He criticised the management of the He criticised the management of the He criticised the management of the United States army, saying there was no need for a military board. Mayor McCarthy's tribute to General Lee was a beautiful and cloquent one, and often he was interrupted by prolonged cheer-ring.

The occasion was greatly enjoyed by all who attended.

Two jewelers vied with each other in allowing Mare to carry off diamond rings, which he immediately pawned for small amounts. Not caring to concentrate his patronage he opened an account with a Potersburg bank, which permitted him to overdraw his account $151.

A well known Petersburg dentist, not only worked upon his teeth to the extent of $24 of time and material, but loaned him $6 as well, as an evidence of regard. In a word, Dr. John Mare duped everybody with whom he came in contact. He came to this section evidently bent on land piracy, and, having accomplished his purpose, has now set out for some new field for operation.

Thuse who are closely acquainted with his adventures, say that he has carried a larke sum of money away with him when he left the city.

Mare is said to be well connected in Budgeest, where a widowed mother lives.
